Catholic Education—Part 1

As we approach the month of September, I am sure you are thinking of a school for your children or grandchildren. I hope you first think of giving your children a Catholic Education. Catholic schools serve the Church and the country. Our country would be very different were it not for Catholic schools. So would our Church. According to the latest report from the Center for the Applied Research in the Apostolate (CARA), 77% of all people in formation for priesthood or religious life today attended Catholic school at some point in their life. That's a very high percentage. And if you think about it, what's even more amazing is that there are about 6,000 fewer Catholic schools today than there were 59 years ago. So, 77% is especially high.

Another report released by CARA in 2016 is about Catholics and Mass attendance: in 1960, 75% (Catholic School), 65% (Public School); in 2013, 27% (Catholic School) 2% (Public School). One thing that I find very exciting and hopeful is that more and more people in the Church are on the Catholic school page. My goal is to move our Catholic school to the front of the minds of our parishioners so that you see it as important as pro-life and immigration. More and more Bishops are seeing the importance of Catholic schools. There are signs of hope everywhere. Most catholic schools remained open for in-person classes during the COVID pandemic.

The true cost of a Catholic education has remained elusive for most of the 200-year history of Catholic schools in the United States. The “strategic subsidy” provided by Religious—vowed women and men—meant that Catholic schools thrived for the better part of 150 years without charging tuition. In my own case, I went to a Catholic school from Grades 8 through 10. My parents never paid a penny for tuition. They paid only for books and uniforms. Unfortunately, today we do not have many Religious men and women who once taught for nothing. We are very fortunate here at St. Francis to have three Religious nuns who teach in our school.

The actual cost to educate a child at St. Francis is $12,000, but our tuition for K–G-5 is only $7,400, and Middle School is $8,000 per child per year. Tuition covers only about 59% of the actual cost to educate a child. This is very close to the national average for catholic schools, which is 55%. Here is a comparative look at the average tuition cost for K–G-5 in a few private schools in Bend:

Cascade Academy	Seven Peaks	Waldorf	Trinity Lutheran	St. Francis	Morningstar
$20,630+	$16,850	$ 13,650	$9,100	$7,400	$6,150+

We have kept the fees at St. Francis as affordable as possible. There are 19 Private Schools/Pre-Schools/High Schools in Bend. Out of the six Private Schools in Bend similar to ours, we are the fifth least when it comes to tuition cost, but we are at the top of the list when it comes to quality education. St. Francis of Assisi Catholic School provides students a Christ-centered community, educating the whole child through academic excellence and instilling the virtues that will guide them to be service-minded leaders and lifelong learners.

I am aware that there are parish families who send their children to other Private Schools and spend way more on tuition. Every Catholic parent has a moral responsibility to give a Catholic Education to your children. It is possible with some sacrifice. We have financial aid available to assist those who cannot afford it on their own. No school is perfect, but I know from hundreds of years of history that a Catholic Education for sure is invaluable, and there is no substitute for it.
