Historic Church Renovation—Part I

Iwould like to give you an update on the progress of the renovation of the Historic Church. The renovation has made significant progress. The outside work on the church building is mostly complete. The roof above the front door still needs to be worked on, and the main roof needs replacement of some screws that are missing, and tightening of the rest of the screws.

SunWest Builders, the general contractor for all the exterior work, has replaced more than 150 bricks, sealed them, and then cleaned, repaired, and painted all the exterior cement work. Alao, all the cracked window sidings have been repaired or replaced.

In the process of the exterior work, we noticed that the roof over the bell towers needed major repairs—which have been completed for an additional cost. We also had to get the help of a hazardous material removal team to clear all the bird droppings (more than a foot thick) from the bell towers. We still need to find an electric mechanism to ring the bell because pulling on the rope is not safe anymore. But the old ladder going up to the bell tower has been replaced, and the walkway in the church attic has been repaired and a railing added to prevent accidents.

The Plexiglass protecting the stained-glass windows has been replaced with real glass. That has an amazing impact on the interior stained-glass windows and has transformed the appearance of the windows from the outside. The stained glass windows have become so visible from the outside that it draws you in to see what they look like from the inside.

Also, the Plexiglass that covered the “rose window” above the main door has been removed and replaced with real glass built into each section, revealing its stunning beauty. And now after the exterior structure of that window was exposed, it required painting. Looking at it from the outside, this window has been transformed like “night and day.”

All of the stained-glass windows except the rose window have been removed, shipped to Daprato Rigali Studios in Chicago, where they separated every piece of stained glass, and re-lead the windows to stand for another 100 years. It was a very tedious and painstaking process. Five windows so far have been reinstalled.

The sanctuary has been truly transformed, restoring it to some of its original design—and enhancing its overall beauty to a level you’ve not seen before! The back wall of the sanctuary has been repaired and clearly divided into three sections, giving depth and beauty—filling them with stencils closely associated with St. Francis.

The reredos structures have been cleaned and gold-leaf painted, and the plywood wall on both sides of the reredos has been replaced with real wood that has a marble look and design that matches the rest of the sanctuary.

Columns have also been installed in the sanctuary to give it a stunning look, with shrines above the side altars for Mary and Joseph that match the columns. And the ugly green carpet in the sanctuary is no more!!! It has been replaced with magnificent floor tiles that look like marble, and they match with everything else in the sanctuary.

The old front altar that weighed more than 2,600 pounds has been converted into two credence tables to go along the back wall of the sanctuary which will be used to set up for Mass. And the new altar is truly a beauty to behold! It matches so well with the other three altars.

The new ambo is also in place which matches the new altar, and the lectors and priests will not have to climb up steps to proclaim the word of God.

Every panel of the old ambo has been used to build the new baptismal font. The new altar, ambo, and baptismal font have all been topped with exquisite marble!

I will be leaving this week to take a group of parishioners on a tour of India. We will be visiting several places in New Delhi, the Taj Mahal in Agra, the tomb of St. Mother Teresa in Calcutta, and several places in my hometown. The tour lasts about two weeks, and I will remain in India for another week to visit with family and friends.

Please keep all of us in your prayers!

—Fr. Jose Thomas Mudakodiyil

Adoration Needs

"... A priest was saying Mass in a church of the town of Bolsena and, after pronouncing the words of consecration, he doubted the reality of the Body of Jesus Christ in the Sacred Host. At that same instant, the Sacred Host was all covered with blood. It seemed as though Jesus Christ would reproach His minister for his infidelity, and make him sorry for it and—at the same time—show us by this great miracle how firmly convinced we ought to be of His Holy Presence in the Eucharist. The Sacred Host shed blood with such abundance that the corporal, the cloth, and the altar, itself, were covered with it."

Important Message from SVdP

"We end this year with hearts full of gratitude and appreciation. We are only able to provide the help we do because this community has been here to offer its strength and support. However, with the large increases in the price of fuel, housing, and groceries we have watched the need for our services grow at an alarming rate.

"We also celebrate the first year of operation for St. Vincent's Place that opened on November 1, 2022. Overall, we saw success and accomplishments. The way we help is by 'graduating' villagers into our other housing. SVdP owns and rents 13 other units ranging from studios to one- and two-bedroom units.

"The highest monthly totals seen by this organization was last month. Prior to that, it was the month before, and the month before that. We cannot sustain the increase in need that we are seeing month after month without help. We need to continue to support the village, . . . and purchase food for the pantry. The increase of food costs alone requires an infusion of tens of thousands of dollars. . . .

"We need help! We need monetary donations to help offset the ever-increasing costs of stocking our shelves, to continue to offer social services, and for the costs associated with operating the Village. And we need more volunteers—the people who have been giving their time are stretched thin. Please support your community through SVdP!"
